

About

1.

The use case realization above is how we implemented the realization. We thought that since the About SVT info was relatively static, we could use a simple writeline to display this data and not have to create another class/entity for this information as it would be needless design as we don't have any version control.

2.

